Pritunl Distributed and Scalable Infrastructure

Pritunl is designed to have high availability with redundant systems that have automatic failover when an instance fails. All servers are equal with no master server and can run independently in the event of other instances failing.

Scalable Decentralized Control for Sensor Networks via

Abstract. A network of embedded devices needs to be able to execute queries for dynamically changing content. Even in a completely reliable network, this is a formidable task because of the enormous scale of the networks, severely limited resources of individual devices (bandwidth and battery power) and the heterogeneity of resources being managed.
